Dear Owners and friends,

In today's linked-up world where information races from one part of the globe to the other and where the process of globalisation affects all of us, a growing demand is emerging: "Quality information for All".

This is not only a demand from people who use and consume media. It is not only a demand from people who work in the media. Quality information is a necessity for all societies, whether rich or poor, whether in Europe or in Africa, in Asia or in North America, in Australia or in Latin America.

'Quality information for All' is essential to the quality of democracy; it is a crucial factor for the respect of the human rights.
